

This picture was taken by me in the MUB today. It pictures the flags hanging for each unique nationality of a current or previous student. This is a very good example of globalization because it shows the transfer of education. People from all corners of the globe have attended to advance their education as well as learn of other cultures from other places and meet many people from them.